Tackle & solve.

Many companies only engage a lawyer when faced with a problem. That is possible of course. But it is better to have legal consultation regularly. So you can act in time. With a competent and accessible partner you can maintain solid legal operations for your business. We'd be happy to collaborate with you.

In addition to assessing the legal aspects, we also look at the business, operational and commercial side of the case. Thanks to our pro-active and investigative attitude, we are able to address and solve a legal issue in depth and from different angles.

We think it's important that business owners and management know the legal subjects and rulings that are relevant to them. That's why we develop and provide training and courses focused on the client's business. We translate legal terms into "plain language" so that everyone understands what is meant. And to raise awareness we give presentations and lectures.

The way we are.

De Meza Legal offers the opportunity of an external legal counsel who gives advice and where necessary practical support. We are active in the corporate market and have a modern and creative approach.

We combine our legal expertise with a healthy dose of entrepreneurial mindset and typical Dutch sobriety. To deliver realistic and workable solutions.

We work together with national and international organizations on technology related matters (artificial intelligence, robotics, telecom, e-commerce), privacy and contract law. We value our partnership. And we love our job.

In our sector we have a special position. We not only give advice but we are also a trusted partner who is involved in our client's business. This is possible if there's a long term close relationship and you know and trust each other.

No hidden costs.

Companies are often reticent to engage a lawyer as they associate legal services with huge and unclear bills. This is unfortunate, because every company has legal matters to deal with. That is why we want to lower the financial threshold and are very clear about the costs.

The Dutch sobriety of De Meza Legal is also reflected in our pricing.

We offer competitive rates without additional office expenses. Where possible we make an advance estimate of the number of hours that we expect to spend for a particular assignment or project. And for some activities we can even agree on a fixed price.
